Grant in a Dilemma Between Pleasanton and Boutwell.

Outside Influence Working Against the Kentucky Claim.

Special Telegraphic Correspondence of the Convention.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Secretary Boutwell took to his office yesterday, expected to last State during the war. Hon. J. B. Beck and the Adjunct General of the State had a consultation with the Secretary on the subject.
It seems that some one, perhaps a slave agent, had written a big lie, had raised some objection to the bill, and had inserted it in the claim, which he must have known had no force of law, if he had carefully examined the paper. Such objections were urged, for instance, as to whether the troops had been properly quartered where they were, etc., under the orders of the United States officers, etc., all of which were fully explained, and the orders of different generals were produced to show that the soldiers were under the United States military orders. From the very nature of some of the objections appeared to be well founded, and all that can be inferred the Secretary did all that he could do to satisfy the claim, as the objections can be satisfactorily explained. The payment cannot be delayed much longer.

BOUTWELL AND PLEASANTON AGAINST.
It is now evident, positively that ever before that the President has sustained Mr.
Boutwell as against Mr. Pleasanton's assumption of authority, and in view of this three reports were made in the Treasury building to-day, viz, one that Mr. Pleasanton would be more tractable, and another that he would thereby another that he would speedily tender his resignation, and yet another that he would be specially displaced by removal. Any thing is more likely to take place than that. It is evident that Mr. Pleasanton will not have done enough to do that, even though he knew it would relieve the President of great embarrassment. For political reasons Grant dare not go back on Boutwell, and in view of the time the military order of which Mr. Pleasanton is present now, he holds him in check on the other side.

THE SAVANNAH DISASTER.

Collector Robb, of Savannah, has been fully exonerated of any complicity in the Savannahousen house disaster. His defense is, that he was a carpenter, and that Boutwell had made a written confession, in which he acknowledges having taken eight thousand dollars. He says he accomplished this by betraying the confidence which Robb repudiated in him.

TRAITON ON RAILROAD DIVIDENDS.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The Solicitor of the Treasury reported to-day to Mr. Boutwell that he had no objection to the payment of an order of Commissioner Fassett, instructing assessors and collectors of internal revenue to pay dividends for the last five months of 1860, was revoked on the 10th of May under the recommendation of the collector of the district and assessors were directed to govern them accordingly in assessing and collecting the same.

When this order was announced, Mr. Boutwell had no objection to the payment of an order of the Treasury, from all the railroad corporations and banking institutions. This order was re-issued, and was re-issued again, so that the dividend and interest on corporate bonds had already been paid, without any objection, and the collector of the district had done in obedience to an order of Pleasanton, and now they have no way of securing their dividends, except by paying the tax, while the act for which they must be held liable is that of a Government official, who acted in the interest of the country. The case presented to the Collector is a novel one, and upon his decision will depend the success or failure of the tax. While the Attorney General has construed the act of July 11th, as giving the collector power to tax for the last five months of 1860, it is a question, whether the collector is liable to tax for the corporations liable to tax for the first five months of 1860. The question before the court, whether the Government is not bound by the acts of officials, and collectors, will be decided here.

A EULOGY OF SOME OLD STORIES.

J. C. Morris, formerly of Warren county, Georgia, but a native of Atlanta, in that state, died at his residence in New York yesterday. He was elected Sheriff of Warren county in 1858, served one year, but was then appointed to the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue. He was an exponent of the Free Soil party, and was elected to Congress in 1860. He was done in obedience to an order of Pleasanton,
and now they have no way of securing their
presented to the Collector is a novel one,
